1. Before 1 May 1951 the nine field hospitals of the Democratic Republic of Vietnam (DRV) in North Vietnam had been filled to capacity. DRV military authorities made arrangements with the Kwangsi Military District to use the Chinese Communist field hospital in Talien (大連), near Pinghsiang (106-44, 22-06), for medium and high level DRV officers, since it was better equipped than the DRV hospitals. On 1 May a number of officers arrived at the Talien hospital from Langson, Indochina.
2. As of 9 June there was an army engineering school at Lunglin (106-14, 23-09) with over 230 students sent by the DRV. The school is under the Army Engineering Headquarters of the Central and South China Military Area; HUA'G Cheng (黃正) is head and CHU Kung-hsin (褚恭信) is political commissar. The school formally started classes on 1 May 1951. On 9 June [] students practicing the construction of pontoon bridges in the countryside near Lunglin.
